Strides gets FDA nod for Imiquimod cream

BANGALORE: Strides Arcolab has received ANDA (abbreviated new drug application) approval from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (USFDA) for Imiquimod cream. A release from the company said it was the first product approval from Beltapharm, the company's U.S. FDA approved semi-solids facility in Milan, Italy. A topical skin cream indicated for the treatment of certain types of actinic keratoses (precancerous skin lesions), the product will be marketed directly by Strides in the U.S. market. – Special Correspondent
